

Elf Stage Diagram:

Where does my child stand so I can choose the right seats?

If your child is in high school:

- On the large group numbers, they will be on the top level in the middle.
- On all other group numbers their placement on the stage will vary by scene.

If your child is in middle school:

- On the list of names (arranged by cast, then grade, then alphabetical by last name), determine if they are on side A or side B.
- On the list of names, check out the color and number associated with their name.
- The stage diagram (green is closest to audience, grey is furthest away from audience – each level gets higher so everyone can be seen) shows where each color will be and where each number will be standing within that area. Side A is on Audience Left and Side B is on Audience Right.
- Note – if your child is part of a Finale Soloist Group (FS#1, etc) they will still be with their grade and on their assigned side, just perhaps closer to the middle of the stage.

If your child is in elementary school:

- On the list of names (arranged by cast, then grade, then alphabetical by last name), determine if they are on side A or side B.
- On the list of names, check out the color and number associated with their name.
- The stage diagram (green is closest to audience, grey is furthest away from audience – each level gets higher so everyone can be seen) shows where each color will be and where each number will be standing within that area. Side A is on Audience Left and Side B is on Audience Right.
- Note – if your child is part of an Elf Troupe (ET#1, etc), their number is in the circled area in the middle of the stage.

Tickets go on sale on Monday, October 20 at CreekFineArts.com.

Adults = $16; Students = $8. Make sure to purchase tickets for the correct cast.
